DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-33, 78-82, drawn to an animal behavior analysis system and method, classified in class 119, subclass 417.
- II. Claims 34-39, drawn to an animal enclosure, classified in class 119, subclass 421.
- III. Claim 40, drawn to a food consumption indicator, classified in class 119, subclass 51.01.
- IV. Claims 41, 42, drawn to a fluid consumption indicator for a mouse, classified in class 119, subclass 72.
- V. Claims 43-69, drawn to a method of characterizing animal behavioral data, classified in class 119, subclass 174.
- VI. Claims 70-77, drawn to a database, classified in class 369, subclass 272.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the animal position indicator is not required to be a force plate but, alternatively, could employ an infrared beam and detector. The subcombination has separate utility such as use within an intruder alert system.

Inventions II and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention III has separate utility such as use within a manufacturing process to prevent overflow of containers. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions III and IV are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention IV has separate utility such as use within a human medical facility to monitor fluid consumption of patients. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions V and IV are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the apparatus of Invention IV can be used in a manufacturing process to determine water usage and is not limited to use in a method of characterizing animal behavioral data.

Inventions V and VI are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the apparatus of Invention VI can be employed to contain data relating to geology or astronomy and is not limited to storage of animal behavioral fingerprints.

Art Unit: 3643

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicants are advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicants are reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
